

[Mobile ebook] The House on the Shore (English Edition)

The House on the Shore (English Edition)

Von Victoria Howard

DOC | *audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF | ePub

DOWNLOAD

+

READ ONLINE

Produktinformation -Verkaufsrang: #490159 in eBooksVerffentlicht am: 2013-01-25Erscheinungsdatum: 2013-01-25File Name: B009BA0WS0 | File size: 77.Mb

Von Victoria Howard : The House on the Shore (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The House on the Shore (English Edition):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen3 von 3 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. What a surprise!Von K. KraisDue to the low price, I bought this book without many expectations. It turned out to be a true find - I'd definitely recommend you buy it.I'll save you the summary of the contents, you just need to know: The novel is a crime story with romance elements woven in. The summary provided by is somewhat misleading there - the driving force behind this book is the "unseen assassin" that is "after one of them". I don't want to spoil the story for any would be reader, so I'll be scant on the details here. But in general terms: V. Howard keeps the suspense up, the story is credible, has no shortage of surprising and intriguing twists and turns. And the romance elements are there, they are cute and they fit into the whole construct of this novel. No "whops, and then they also fell in love and had hot steamy sex" here. I was surprised by the quality of the writing, Victoria Howard's style worked very well for me (and there is no problem with the spelling in this kindle version). The well written crime meets descriptions of the Scottish landscape, the characters are developed in detail and the story just... makes sense. In one word: Enjoy!

Kurzbeschreibung 2009 London Book Festival Honourable Mention; Category Fiction. Heartbroken Anna MacDonald leaves Edinburgh to find peace at the edge of a Scottish loch. Safely ensconced in her late grandmother's cottage, she can finally heal her heart and write the novel that has burned inside her for years. Her peace is short-lived. When debonair artist Luke Tallantyre's yacht gets stranded in the loch, he seeks help at the nearest residence Anna's croft. She finds him annoying. He instantly dislikes the stunning but cranky hermit. But there's indisputable evidence that a hit man is on the prowl in the village. Is he after Anna or Luke? And what is Luke keeping from her that could deepen the danger? Against their wills, they join forces and embark on an adventure neither ever imagined including a chance at true love. The House on the Shore is written in British English, using standard British spelling and grammar.

Kurzbeschreibung 2009 London Book Festival Honourable Mention; Category Fiction. Heartbroken Anna MacDonald leaves Edinburgh to find peace at the edge of a Scottish loch. Safely ensconced in her late grandmother's cottage, she can finally heal her heart and write the novel that has burned inside her for years. Her peace is short-lived. When debonair artist Luke Tallantyre's yacht gets stranded in the loch, he seeks help at the nearest residence Anna's croft. She finds him annoying. He instantly dislikes the stunning but cranky hermit. But there's indisputable evidence that a hit man is on the prowl in the village. Is he after Anna or Luke? And what is Luke keeping from her that could deepen the danger? Against their wills, they join forces and embark on an adventure neither ever imagined including a chance at true love. The House on the Shore is written in British English, using standard British spelling and grammar.

ber den Autor und weitere Mitwirkende Victoria Howard is the author of three romantic suspense novels; The House on the Shore, (a 2009 Joan Hessayon Award finalist), Three Weeks Last Spring, and Ring of Lies. She is also the author of several short stories, including the Kindle short, A Little Protection. Born in Liverpool, Victoria trained as a medical secretary, and subsequently worked for the National Health Service. She spent twenty years living on a croft in the Highlands of Scotland, managing a company involved in the offshore oil and gas industry. During those rare times when she isn't writing, Victoria can be found curled up with a book, gardening, designing knitwear, walking her Border collie, Rosie, or travelling the world. Victoria is a member of Romantic Novelists Association and The Alliance of Independent Authors.