Von Mary Jo Putney, Diane Chamberlain, Patricia Rice, Rebecca York, Catherine Asaro, Mallory Kane, Lucy Grijalva, Candice Kohl, Linda Madl, Cynthia Valero : The Journey Home (English Edition) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised The Journey Home (English Edition):

KundenrezensionenHilfreichste Kundenrezensionen2 von 2 Kunden fanden die folgende Rezension hilfreich. A collection of stories about warriors coming homeVon S. FischerLet me first say that I didn't read the whole book but bought it for the stories by Asaro and York at the same time I ordered the book 'Best new paranormal romance'.

Imagine my surprise when I found out that these two stories were identical in both anthologies, so I'm writing this review to help other readers to make a more informed decision. That being said: I liked the stories by Asaro and York, but preferred to keep and read the Paranormal Romance collection as opposed to 'Journey Home' since I'm more into that than realistic (as opposed to paranormal) stories. From what I've seen in the description, the other titles are not Science Fiction, as these two are, but set in fantasy (few stories) and reality (the majority), the latter from the Middle Ages to today. Every story is about a man coming home from war (often emotionally and physically wounded) who meets a woman (who is also often damaged by events during the war). Both help each other to heal and find happiness. Part of the proceeds from the book are donated to an organisation that supports US-soldiers. Mary Jo Putney, The stargazer's familiar Rebecca York, A hero's welcome Patricia Rice, Home is where the heart is Catherine Asaro, The shadowed heart Mallory Kane, A better man Linda Madl, Heart Crossings CB Scott, The sacrifice Lucy Grijalva, Shadow of the rose Diane Chamberlin, Candace Kohl
